University exits decade of change

By TONY CAMPBELL
Features editor

As the entire university and The Daily Eastern News prepare to take a break for the holidays, both will also jump from a decade of changes on Eastern's campus to another.

In the 1980s, the university dealt with a lack of campus housing by purchasing residences in the area to fill the need. Ninth Street Hall and East Hall were both purchased to help deal with the overflow of students spreading across campus.

Now the '80s close with the announcement of the university's intention to purchase Regency Apartments to boost campus housing further.

As for the '90s, Eastern's campus will continue its expansion as Phase II of the Greek Court project will begin. Two new L-shaped units will be located east of the two present units. The Greek Court project has four phases which begin as the need for the facilities arise.

After more than a year of construction, the Lumpkin College of Business should join the ranks of operational buildings in the spring of 1991. The Coleman Annex should centralize the college of business into one main building, gathering business classes which are currently held in several buildings.

Preliminary construction on the student recreation center addition to Lantz Gym will follow close on the heels of the '90s entrance, also. Construction is expected to begin during summer and the facility should be open by the fall of 1991.

These changes all should be completed within the first few years of the new decade. As for the rest of the '90s and into the new century, Eastern students will simply have to continue waiting and watching. Until then, this edition marks the last Daily Eastern News of the semester, year and decade.

Approximately 535 students will participate in commencement ceremonies for the fall semester at 2 p.m. Sunday in Lantz Gym.

The number of students graduating this semester "is about the same as last fall," said Brenda Cuppy, commencement coordinator. "We usually have between 550 and 600 students participating in fall commencement."

Congressman Terry L. Bruce, D-Olney, and Hazel Watson, Republican state central committeewoman from Illinois' 19 congressional district, will receive honorary degrees during the ceremony.

Both Bruce and Watson will receive the University's highest tribute, the Honorary Doctor of Public Service degree.

Recipients of the degree are selected through applications turned into Eastern's Honorary Degree Committee and are later approved by the Board of Governors.

The BOG is the governing board for Eastern, Western Illinois

University, Chicago State University, Governors State University and Northeastern Illinois University.

BOG Chair Nancy Froelich and former BOG Chair Evelyn Kaugman are among those graduating with a Bachelor of Arts degree through Eastern's School of Adult and Continuing Education and the Board of Governors Degree Program.

Hannah Eads, professor of fine arts, is the acting faculty marshal for the event.

"She will lead the commencement procession and recession," Cuppy said, adding Eastern's six colleges rotate each semester and choose a departmental representative.

Speaking at commencement will be Student Body President Patty Kennedy, BOG Representative Dominick Bufalino and former Alumni Association President Tom Gaffigan.

Eastern President Stan Rives will also be present at the ceremony to confer the degrees on the graduating class.

The Board of Governors gave Eastern the go ahead Thursday to begin construction on Greek Court's Phase II and also to take the first step toward implementing a touch-tone registration system.

"Construction can start right away now," said BOG spokeswoman Michelle Brazell. The BOG is the governing board for Governors State University, Chicago State University, Northeastern Illinois University, Western Illinois University and Eastern.

The second phase of Greek Court involves the construction of two L-shaped buildings that will be located directly east of the two existing buildings. Each will hold two fraternity/sorority houses.

The board approval of the touch-tone registration system allows the university to purchase a voice response system for $53,764, part of a projected cost of $213,000 for the entire system.

The new system, which should be in use by 1991, will enable students to call in directly to the computer registration software and choose courses. The computer also will tell students if courses are closed and how much their tuition will be.

Approval also was granted to architect Bob Gruber to begin designing the new recreation center which was approved by student vote in the Nov. 8 student elections.

The BOG heard status reports of the marketing project being conducted on the five member universities. Preliminary findings were reported by Kenneth Majer, of Siegel & Gale, a marketing firm from San Francisco heading the project.

"He reported what the four areas are that the BOG universities should be focusing on," Brazell said. The four areas are undergraduate instruction, affordability, assessibility and community service.

"The areas are a result of more than 200 people being interviewed to see what the universities should focus on," Brazell said. She said those interviewed included legislators, faculty, alumni, students and business leaders. Some of the four areas are not even in the mission statements of the universities, though, she added.

Brazell said Majer revealed three strengths of the BOG system are quality of education, commitment to a diverse student body and good geographic location, such as Eastern being located in Charleston away from the "hustle and bustle," and Northeastern, Governors State and Chicago State being located in the Chicago area, which is convenient to the residents there.

Majer will continue the marketing project, doing further research and providing a final analysis in February to "recommend tactics for the schools," Brazell said.

Results of a study on minority student access to public universities were given by Sen. Miguel del Valle, D-Chicago, and BOG member Wilma Sutton. "The results show that there is definitely room for improvement," Brazell said. She said their message was that public higher education has to be the leader in improving minority access.

"(BOG) Chancellor Layzell will be making a proposal in February to approve an office of minority affairs in the BOG system," Brazell said, "which would be a major initiative."

Nearly 40 percent of minority enrollment in Illinois public higher education is enrolled in the BOG system.

Students who fail to return their textbooks by Dec. 15 may be in for an unpleasant surprise.

Eastern's Textbook Rental Service is raising its fines from last semester for books returned late, said Monty Bennett, director of the Textbook Rental Service.

Textbook Rental Service hours this week are 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday; 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Wednesday; 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. Thursday; and 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Friday.

For every book returned late, a student will be charged $2 plus 25 cents for each day the book is late up to a maximum of $10 for each book.

"If students wait to return their books until next semester, they will have a fine close to $10 for each book they do not return," Bennett said.

In previous years, the fine was $2 per book, up to $10 altogether, meaning if a student returned 20 books late, he would only be charged $10.

"We are not interested in making money," Bennett said. "We simply want the students' cooperation."

When students do not return books, it makes it difficult for the Textbook Rental Service to know how many books will be needed for the next semester, Bennett added.

In addition to imposing stricter fines, the Textbook Rental Service will also be enforcing stricter highlighting rules.

Books that were new at the beginning of the semester will be inspected carefully upon return, Bennett said. If there is a substantial amount of highlighting in a book, students will be required to pay to replace the book at full replacement cost.

"The books belong to the university, not the students," Bennett said. "I think everyone appreciates getting books that have been taken care of properly."

CAA votes to uphold current requirements

By KIM MIKUS
Senior reporter

Members of the Council on Academic Affairs Thursday voted narrowly to leave the credit hour assignments of the cultural experience core of the general education requirements at the current six.

After a lengthy discussion, the Council voted 6-5 in favor of keeping the current six-hour core, which is divided as three hours in fine arts and three hours in either literature or philosophy. The revised general education requirements should be implemented in fall of 1991, pending approval by Eastern President Stan Rives.

The vote came after CAA member Tim Shonk, who is also an associate professor of English, made a proposal to increase the cultural experience core to nine credit hours. Shonk's proposal would have divided the hours to three in fine arts, three in literature and an elective in literature, fine arts or philosophy.

"Literature is the heart and soul of the humanities," Shonk said during his plea to the council to reconsider the ramifications of implementing a general education core that does not include a literature requirement as such.

Shonk explained the perceived benefits of a mandatory literature requirement, though he said he would support another proposal which would raise the requirement to nine hours. "The study of literature is such an important factor that we can't leave it to chance," Shonk said.

Philosophy professor Robert Barford said he in part supported Shonk's proposal, but felt the same opportunity should be available for philosophy.

The other requirement, proposed by Dean John Laible of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences and Dean Vaughn Jaenike of the College of Fine Arts, would have asked the nine hours be distributed as one course in fine arts, one course in literature or philosophy, and one course in fine arts, literature or philosophy.

But, Council member Kathlene Shank, professor of special education, said the council should divide the question into first if requirement should be increased to nine hours. If that motion was approved, the CAA would then have addressed how hours be divided.

"I'm very disgusted that we're discussing voting on changing the requirement to nine hours," Shank said. "I feel what we have is good."

Laible said he was "disappointed" with the CAA's decision. Shonk agreed with Laible by saying, "It's a mistake not to have a required literature course."

The Council also approved the Afro-American Studies Committee proposal for introducing students to the issue of race relations by using courses already in the revised general education requirements.

Salukis streak to 74-58 win

15-0 opening triggers win

By JEFF SMITH
Sports editor

A 15-0 first-half run keyed by a physical, swarming man-to-man defense pushed Southern Illinois over Eastern 74-58 Thursday night at Lantz Gym.

"Their defense took us out of the game, and we never had a chance to get in it," Eastern head coach Rick Samuels said.

Southern forced the Panthers, 3-2, into a confused frenzy on offense for most of the opening half. Eastern missed its first six shots and three free throws and didn't score until center Jeff Mironcow hit a turnaround jump shot with 14:58 left in the half.

"They (the Salukis) came out and got in our face," guard Kavian Martin said.

And, the Panthers did not react well to the early deficit. "Once we got down by eight, we were thinking about making an eight-point play," Martin said of the team's lack of patience on offense.

"Our kids' response (to being down big early) was to go one-on-one off the dribble," Samuels said. "Our answer to their defensive pressure was to take a shot off the first pass. We need to be patient."

The Panthers shot just 23.8 percent in the first half — making five shots — and shot 35.3 percent for the game. They also turned the ball over 10 times before intermission, at which Southern led 38-20.

As Salukis head coach Rich

Eastern forward Dave Olson (33) snares an offensive rebound while sandwiched between Southern Illinois defenders Jerry Jones (44) and Ashraf Amaya (right) during the Salukis' 74-58 win over the Panthers Thursday night at Lantz Gym.

Herrin noted, "We couldn't ask for a better defensive game."

Southern, 4-0, looked almost as impressive on offense. Led by guard Freddie McSwain's 20 points, the team shot 63.6 percent from the field within its relaxed one-on-one type of scheme. "I think that to get our players to play that hard on defense, we give them freedom on offense," Herrin said.

'Grinch' nabs tree from Lawson Hall

By CANDICE HOFFMAN
and CHARLA BRAUTIGAM
Staff writers

If you thought the Grinch only preyed on Whoville residents, think again.

Because Thursday morning he was busy stealing Christmas from Lawson Hall residents as he made off with their Christmas tree.

University Police Chief Tom Larson said the Christmas tree theft was reported to police around 9 a.m. by a Lawson Hall building service worker.

The officers were able to catch a pair of "grinches" by following a trail of garland to Regency's Lancaster Apartments, where the students live.

Larson compared the trail of garland to the fairy tale characters Hanzel and Gretel who left behind a trail of bread crumbs in the forest.

The students, ages 19 and 20, readily admitted to taking the tree from the Lawson Hall lobby when officers confronted them at the apartment, Larson said.

Even though Thursday's incident was not the first time Christmas decorations have been reported stolen at Eastern, it was the first time decorations were recovered so quickly, Larson said.

Since there were no signs of forced entry into Lawson, Larson suspects the two students were visiting friends in the hall prior to taking the tree.

Lawson Hall Counselor Sharon Carpenter agreed with Larson's theory. Night Assistants could have been on floor rounds rather than in the lobby when the incident occurred and, therefore, the tree could have been removed undetected.

The students will appear before Eastern's Judicial Board, Larson said. However, since the students readily admitted to taking the tree and because its value was less than $50, they may not have to appear in criminal court.

All of this has taken place just before Eastern's residence halls are to give their Christmas trees away to needy families in the Coles County area.

Greek Court counselor Kellie Miller and her family are to pick up and deliver approximately 20 Christmas trees Thursday and Friday to Coles County families.

"The trees would have been thrown out," Miller said. "Now we can help make the holidays happier for some families."

A list of needy families was compiled by Althea Pendergast-White, Miller's sister, who gathered the names and addresses from local organizations.

This is the first year the halls have donated the trees to needy families, Miller said, adding "We hope to do this next year."

However, continuation of the project depends on time and if volunteers aid in distributing the trees, she added.

Miller said for the past four years her family has helped deliver care packages to the needy for the Charleston Civic Association.

Miller added after learning the trees were going to be thrown out after approximately two weeks of use, she thought needy families could use them.

"It's a fantastic idea," said Douglas Hall Counselor James Gregory.

Tree decorations will be removed before the trees, purchased by the individual halls, before being sent to the families since the decorations are owned by the individual halls and reused each year.

Two Triad residents launch student escort service

By DEBBIE CARLSON
Staff writer

It is a common belief that most students are apathetic about matters that concern Eastern, but at least two Triad residents might disagree with that.

Roommates Matt Legaspi and Bill Fitzgerald of McKinney Hall provide a free escort service to anyone who would like someone to walk with them across campus.

Legaspi, 20, a sophomore speech communications major and Fitzgerald, 21, a junior health studies major, started their escort service since three attacks on Eastern women in October and November.

Legaspi said one of the reasons he and Fitzgerald decided to start their own escort service was because Legaspi had a friend who was attacked. "I can understand anyone who has feelings for it," Legaspi said.

"We were thinking about it last year," said Fitzgerald, who recalled a system implemented at a university he previously attended. "At (Illinois) Wesleyan there were 'safe walks,' so we wanted to do it for the Triad."

The two spread the word to Triad residents by putting a sign up at the Triad front desk. "We did it here (the Triad) because people might say, 'who are these guys, how do we know they're not going to attack the girls,'" Legaspi said. "That's why we did it just in the Triad. We've had a fairly acceptable response here."

The two said what they are doing is "not that big a deal." Legaspi said, "The attacks woke up everyone and people took caution. We're just trying to be nice guys. We have nothing to gain and nothing to lose."

As far as trying to get other people to use the escort service, Fitzgerald said he brought it up at the McKinney Hall Council, but the council's backing is not necessary in their eyes. "I think people need to take action. We organized it for people in the Triad," Fitzgerald said. "People need to take the initiative, people in the halls should take that initiative."

The requests have leveled out lately, Legaspi said. "At first people mentioned it was cool and really nice." Fitzgerald added a lot of people have thanked them for it.

Fitzgerald and Legaspi want to continue throughout the year with their service.
